Train to Aix, Countryside Wine Tour

Breakfast at hotel. Morning transfer to Paris train station to board the train to Provence. One of the most famous regions in the south of France, Provence is known for its boundless natural beauty, ranging from the Southern Alps and the Camargue plains to rolling vineyards, olive groves, and pine forests. During the three-hour, high-speed train journey, with memorable views of these stunning landscapes—keep an eye out for Provence's famous lavender fields! Destination is Aix-en-Provence, known locally as "Aix." This historic city has deep roots dating back to its founding during Roman times. Home to ancient Roman baths and hot springs, Aix is also famous for its well-preserved medieval architecture. Arrive Aix-en-Provence station and transfer to hotel. Later join the tour to discover the beautiful culture of Provence on a countryside wine tour. Travel a short way east to Sainte-Victoire Mountain. The scenic landscapes around this rocky summit inspired none other than post-impressionist master painter Paul Cézanne, a native of Aix. Visit Côtes de Provence Sainte-Victoire vineyards. Located at the foot of the mountain. Enjoy a tasting of some famous wines from this unique terroir, which include grenache, syrah, and cinsault. Later return to Aix. Overnight at Aix-en-Provence hotel.
